FUND REVIEW

The Fund shed -0.89% in February, underperforming the benchmark by 0.14%. YTD, the Fund lost -0.57%, while the benchmark shed -0.34%. The underperformance came mainly from the Fund's exposure to foreign equity via the ASEAN Equity fund. The main contributor for fixed income was the overweight position in corporate bonds.

Global fears of possible oil disruptions have heightened from spreading unrest and violence in Libya and Bahrain, pushing oil prices across USD100/barrel, the highest in 2 years. This is primarily driven by financial speculation, not real end-demand. However, sustained high prices beyond 3 months can dent the global economic recovery. As such, we are more defensively positioned in this environment, paying careful attention to portfolio risk and volatility.

During the month, we reduced portfolio beta and took some profit on the Construction sector on names such as IJM, MRCB, and WCT, as well as Aviation stocks such as AirAsia, MAS and Malaysia Airports. We increased the layer of defensives such as Digi, Petronas Gas, Petronas Dagangan and POS. We also added to our glove holdings in expectation of the peaking of latex prices. Going forward, we will maintain our strategy of being highly invested, while monitoring portfolio volatility. For fixed income, due to ample liquidity in the market, we believe the bonds will be supported against excessive yield rising. We continue to maintain our strategy with an overweight in the corporate debt segment and aim to switch to new issuances if the primary bond yields are attractive.
